PREFACE

THIS is the first General Register to be published by the University. It is intended to give a concise history of the personnel of the University for the first ten years, closing with July 1, 1902.

In addition to the data obtained directly from the persons named in the volume, much information was found in the reports of the Secretary of the Board of Trustees; the Auditor's accounts; the records in the Recorder's office; the Annual Registers; the University Record; the student publications, and the University Scrap Book in the General Library.

The officers of instruction and administration have been arranged as far as possible according to the plan adopted in the Annual Register. Members of the faculties have been arranged on the basis of rank and seniority. Those who have offered courses during the Summer Quarters only are placed after the names of the permanent officers. The data concerning each officer is limited to his career as a member of the faculties of the University of Chicago.

In the list of collegiate alumni appear the names of the graduates of the old University of Chicago from 1861 to 1886. By formal act of the Board of Trustees on February 2, 1891, the degrees of A.B. and S.B. conferred by the old University were confirmed and re-enacted by the new University, thus making these graduates alumni of the present institution. On July 13, 1891, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary became the Divinity School of the University, and the graduates of the Seminary became alumni of the new Divinity School.

With the name of each honorary alumnus has been published the statement used at the time the degree was conferred.

The present volume contains all graduates up to July 1, 1902. All students graduating after July 1 of one year and before July 1 of the next year are enrolled as graduates of the latter year.

The names of all persons who received appointments as officers of administration and instruction or as fellows before July 1, 1902, are included under their respective departments.

To the name of each person known to be deceased, an asterisk (*) has been prefixed.

Great care has been taken to insure the accuracy of the data herein published; but many errors and imperfections will no doubt be found in this first General Register. No small difficulty has been encountered in sifting the data from the disorganized material which was obtainable, and in tracing alumni and fellows whose careers have not been followed since they left the University.

The alumni can effectively assist in the work of keeping a correct and up-to-date register by informing the University of any change in address or profession.

ALUMNI

HONORARY ALUMNI

1899

*William McKinley, President of the United States - - - - LL.D.

"You, William McKinley, a man endowed with all advantages of education and experience, who, at the time of gravest crisis, when the weal not only of this Republic, but of foreign states, was put in deepest peril, and the path of wisdom lay dark before the people, served each highest interest, and, by your wisdom and your foresight, out of confusion brought a happy ending — the Trustees of the University of Chicago, on nomination by the University Senate, have admitted to the degree of Doctor of Laws now for the first time given by them, and have granted and bestowed upon you all honors, rights, and privileges here or elsewhere appertaining to the same. In testimony whereof, I now present you with the Doctor's hood of the University of Chicago, which, in virtue of this degree, you have the right to wear, and with the diploma of the University. And may you increase in wisdom and in virtue, and, in days to come, as in the past, cherish the Republic and defend her."

1901

Jules Cambon, Ambassador to the United States from the Republic of France, LL.D.

"Minister Plenipotentiary and Ambassador to the United States from the Republic of France: soldier, administrator, diplomatist, statesman; conservator of the interests of France by advancing the interests of peace and good will throughout the world; weighty in the affairs of your own country: weightier still in the international field of diplomacy: most of all distinguished for the signal wisdom by which you brought peace to the American Republic and to the ancient nation with which she was unhappily at war: for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

E. Benjamin Andrews, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska - - LL.D.

"Chancellor of the University of Nebraska; President of Denison University; Professor in Newton Theological Institution; Professor in Brown University: Professor in Cornell University: President of Brown University; Superintendent of Schools in the City of Chicago: eminent among the teachers of your generation for rare success in stimulating the ambition and raising the ideals of students: author of valuable aids in the study of history and economics: a leader in educational thought and administration; a benefactor of the City of Chicago by instituting reforms in the policy of our public schools and in their management: for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

WILLIAM NEWTON CLARKE, Professor of Theology in Colgate University - D.D.

"Professor of Theology in Colgate University; preacher, exegete, and theologian; exemplar of the best type of pulpit discourse; interpreter of the sacred Scriptures with an insight that comes of knowledge and reverence; theologian to whom the divine thought and method are so disclosed as to evince their intrinsic reasonableness and redemptive efficacy; author of a commentary on the Gospel of Mark; and of other New Testament studies, and notably of a treatise on Christian Theology, your independent treatment of which makes an important contribution to theological science: — for which, in particular the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Divinity of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

MARCUS DODDS, Professor of New Testament Interpretation in New College, Edinburgh - - - - - - - - - - - - - - D.D.

"Professor of New Testament Interpretation in New College, Edinburgh, preacher of insight and courage; champion of academic freedom in all matters pertaining to theological science; wise and inspiring teacher of students for the Christian ministry; scientific investigator and interpreter of the literature of both the Old and the New Testaments; editor of a series of theological handbooks for the people; translator of Justin, Augustine, and Athenagoras; author of commentaries on the Book of Genesis and the Gospel according to John: — for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Divinity of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

BASIL LANNEAU GILDERSLEEVE, Professor of Greek in Johns Hopkins University, LL.D.

"Professor of Greek in the Johns Hopkins University; founder and editor of the American Journal of Philology; at once lover of letters and student of linguistic science; commentator, in noteworthy editions, upon Pindar and Persius; author of a Latin Grammar based on scientific principles; investigator, and stimulator of the investigations of others; author of a work now appearing in which the results of many years of study of the Syntax of Classical Greek are summarized: — for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

WILLIAM WATSON GOODWIN, Professor of Greek in Harvard University - LL.D.

"During forty-five years Professor of Greek at the oldest of American Universities; author of a widely used Greek grammar, and of a treatise on the syntax of the Greek modes and tenses, recognized by two generations of scholars as the one systematic, complete, and indispensable handbook of its subject; first Director of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens; and in the present year editor of what will long remain for English-speaking scholars the definitive edition of Demosthenes' Oration on the Crown: — for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

GEORGE LYMAN KITTREDGE, Professor of English Literature in Harvard University - - - - - - - - - - - - - - LL.D.

"Professor of English Literature in Harvard University; editor of Latin and English classics; author of Latin and English grammars in which accurate scholarship is combined with clearness and simplicity; friend and helper of the great generation now passing away and of that just beginning its work; master of modern as well as of ancient and mediæval literatures:—and especially for your work upon the English ballads, the language of Chaucer, and the identification of Sir Thomas Mallory, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

EDWARD CHARLES PICKERING, Professor of Astronomy and Director of the Astronomical Observatory of Harvard University - - - - - - - LL.D.

"During twenty-five years Payne Professor of Astronomy and Director of the Astronomical Observatory of Harvard College, an observatory developed through your labors into an institution foremost in research on two continents; organizer in the United States of a system of laboratory teaching of great influence on education in physical science; student of optics; discoverer of variable stars and investigator in stellar photometry; originator of many astronomical applications of photography and spectroscopy, which have revealed the constitution of the stellar universe:—for these distinguished services, and especially for the last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

JACOB HENRY VAN 'T HOFF, Professor of Physical Chemistry in the University of Berlin - - - - - - - - - - - - - - LL.D.

"Professor of Physical Chemistry in the University of Berlin, investigator who has brought to bear upon chemical problems a keen and logical mind, endowed with speculative and imaginative powers of the highest order; founder of the theory explaining the space relations of atoms in molecules—a theory which is essential to a comprehension of the chemistry of organized and inorganized matter; master in the field of dynamic chemistry; investigator and brilliant discoverer in the domain of the modern theory of solutions, a theory which constitutes one of the greatest advances made by chemical science in the last quarter of a century:—for these splendid and fertile achievements, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

CHARLES DOOLITTLE WALCOTT, Director of the United States Geological Survey, LL.D.

"Director of the United States Geological Survey; Superintendent of the National Museum; author of numerous palæontological and geological contributions of eminent merit, notable among which are a series of monumental works on the Cambrian System of North America:—for these distinguished contributions, and for signal ability displayed in the administration of the scientific and educational interests committed to your charge, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."

EDMUND BEECHER WILSON, Professor of Zoölogy in Columbia University - LL.D.

"Professor of Zoölogy in Columbia University, zoölogist and worker in the field of biology; teacher and leader of many young investigators; writer of standard text-books in general biology and of numerous philosophical essays and classical memoirs on zöology; author of a masterpiece of research and presentation, 'The Cell in Development and Inheritance,' which embodies the writer's original contributions in embryology and cytology, as well as the results reached by other workers in these fields:—for these eminent services in science, especially for the work last named, by the authority of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, upon the nomination of the University Senate, I confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws of this University, with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereunto."
